To this end, if a member of the public has a complaint of discrimination against the university the individual, within ninety (90) days of the alleged violation, should make such complaint in writing and include the name, address and telephone number of the complainant; a description of the alleged violation including the date and time of such violation; and the signature of the complainant and send the complaint to:

If the complainant is unable to submit the complaint in writing, the complainant may contact the Director of Equal Employment Opportunity and Affirmative Action by telephone at 312-567-3134 to make a verbal complaint.

The Director or his or her designee, will investigate the matter and provide a written response to the complainant within sixty (60) days after receipt of the complaint.

University policy also prohibits retaliation against anyone who files a complaint in good faith pursuant to these procedures. Additionally, these procedures do not prevent a complainant from filing a complaint with a federal state or local agency.

University students, staff or faculty who seek to file a complaint of discrimination must follow the complaint procedures outlined in the respective student, staff and faculty handbooks.
